

"NOT GUILTY" IS JURY'S VERDICT

Under Law Decision Was No Surprise Except in its Quickness.

WAIT OF TWO HOURS WAS ALL

Celebration of Result About Town During Evening: Sheets Goes to Family Thoroughly Happy.

It took eight men less than two hours to agree that under the law George A. Sheets charged with accepting a bribe while chief of police, was not guilty. District Attorney Loofbrow concluded the arguments and was followed by Judge Morse, who read his instructions to the jury. The judge was done at 10 minutes past three and the jury, under Bailiff Andy Smith, marched out of the courtroom into the jury room.

MOMENT AT HAND.
Exceptions to the charge were then taken by both sides and this done, the defendant, attorneys, spectators and others remained about as if confident the jury would be in within a short time.

The defendant sat in his chair near the press table and while paying no particular attention to anything going on about the room. He was plainly ill at ease.

JURY MARCHES IN.

When at 4:55 o'clock the jury marched back into the courtroom a stir started in the courtroom and swept throughout the building. There were few spectators who waited from the trial, but when the jury took their seats the courtroom was comfortably filled.

GOOD WORD COMING.

Sheets' attorneys, Christensen and Wedgwood, smiled and the defendant, who had been sitting doubled up in his chair, united himself gradually as he read in his attorneys' faces that the word was to be good.

When asked if a decision had been reached, John James, who had been selected as foreman, arose and answering in the affirmative, passed over to Clerk King, a sheet of paper. The clerk glanced at it and passed it to Judge Morse, who glancing at it passed it back to the clerk, nodding to him to read it.

The verdict was known before it was read as it was evident the jury would not be in so quickly with a verdict of guilty or announcement of disagreement.

"NOT GUILTY."

Clerk King was reading, "State of Utah vs. George A. Sheets, etc. We the jury empaneled in the above case, find the defendant not guilty."

The troubled look which George A. Sheets has worn for a year and longer disappeared. He sighed and when court adjourned hurriedly he walked toward the jury box, where he shook hands with each juror and thanked him for the verdict. His attorneys were at his side first and he shook hands with them. Friends near him crowded around him and clutched his arms because his hands were busy.

"My gratitude and thanks go out to every man and woman of Salt Lake and Utah who has stood shoulder to shoulder with me and believed in me through the prosecution of the graft charges made against me," he said, talking rapidly. "I never let myself think that I would not be acquitted."

SALOONS CELEBRATE.

When the word reached the police station several policemen shouted and the flag on the fire station was run up under the direction of Lieut. Andy Elktem.

Celebrations in various saloons about town started the minute the verdict came in, and were kept up until away after midnight. The cause of it all, Sheets, himself, went home to his family straight from the courtroom, and there he was visited during the evening by officers and citizens, desirous of expressing their satisfaction at the result of the trial.

VERDICT EXPECTED.

An acquittal was expected unless the jury happened to "hang," because, under the law there was but one decision possible: that of "not guilty." The jury had to decide whether or not Donaldson and Bell were accomplices, and if so their testimony could not be regarded at all. The jury, of course, saw Donaldson and Bell were accomplices, and as their testimony was the only evidence bearing upon the crime itself, bribery, it did not take long to reach a decision.

THREE BALLOTS TAKEN.

Three ballots were taken; the first standing four for conviction and four for acquittal. This ballot was cast to bring up a discussion of the evidence and case generally. The first vote was cast immediately after John James had been elected foreman. A half-hour later the second ballot was cast, and this stood five for acquittal and three for conviction. The third ballot was made at 5 o'clock and was unanimously in favor of the defendant.

INSTRUCTIONS TO JURY.

The instructions to the jury were regarded as most fair. Numerous exceptions were taken to various sections, however, by the defense. This was not unexpected as an appeal would have been taken had the defendant been convicted. The portions of the instructions which were of special bearing upon the case were:

ABOUT ACCOMPLICES.
"Under the laws of this state, a person cannot be convicted of a crime upon the testimony of an accomplice, unless such testimony is corroborated by other evidence, which in itself and without the aid of the testimony of an accomplice tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the offense; and the corroboration is not sufficient if it merely repeats the statement of the accomplice or the circumstances thereof. The corroborative evidence need not be sufficient to establish the guilt of the defendant, but it must tend in some degree to implicate and connect the defendant with the commission of the crime charged, and it is not necessary that the testimony of an accomplice should be corroborated in every circumstance which he details in evidence."

"AND THEY DID."

"If you should find from the evidence that William Bell (William Bell) or James Donaldson were either or both accomplices in the commission of the crime with which the defendant is charged, then you should eliminate from your consideration the evidence in the case, with a view to ascertain if there be evidence tending to connect the defendant with the offense charged, and if after such consideration and examination you should find no such evidence, you should return a verdict of not guilty; but if after such examination and consideration you should find that there is such evidence, then you should consider all the evidence in the case, including the evidence of such accomplices or accomplices, and determine therefrom, under the rules given you in these instructions, the question of the guilt of the defendant."

DUTY RE-EXPLAINED.

"You are instructed that a mere preponderance of the evidence in favor of the prosecution is not sufficient to convict the defendant. Before he can be convicted each juror must be convinced of a guilt beyond a reasonable doubt."

WEIGHING WITNESSES.

"If you believe any witness has willfully testified falsely as to any material fact in this case, you are at liberty to disregard the whole or any part of the testimony of such witness, except as you may have been corroborated by a credible witness, or credible evidence in the case."
"An accomplice cannot be compelled to testify, and if he voluntarily gives evidence, then in determining his credibility and the weight that should be given to his testimony, you should take into consideration any motive, so far as the same appears from the evidence, or from legitimate inferences to be drawn from the facts proven, which he may have for giving such evidence."

Entertainment of Supreme Chancellor Barnes Brought to Conclusion Last Evening—Many Present.

The visit of Supreme Chancellor Charles A. Barnes of the Knights of Pythias, was brought to an enjoyable close last evening in Castle hall, with 300 Pythians present.

There were present knights from the three Salt Lake lodges, Colanthe Myrtle, Rocky Mountain and Lincoln; Murray, Sandy, Grand Junction, Bingham, Helper, Castle Gate, Scofield, Green River, Mercer, Eureka, Park City and Ogden. Past Supreme Representative C. A. Haight introduced Grand Chancellor W. A. Radford. The latter gave an address of welcome to Judge Barnes who spoke for an hour. He called attention to the fact that many men prominent in public life are still members of the order, including President Roosevelt, 37 United States senators, and 127 congressmen. W. J. Bryan is a Knight of Pythias, as was McKinley. Judge Barnes said there are over 7,000 lodges in the United States, with 700,000 members, and there are also branches of the order in foreign countries. In conclusion he expressed a hope that the members would be true to the rules and teachings of the order, that they cherish the fraternal spirit, both among themselves and to members of other orders and to those that belonged to none at all. Speeches were made also by Grand Representatives C. P. Jennings of Ogden, Lodge; by J. A. Harrison of Helper, grand vice chancellor of Utah and others. C. I. Douglas of Salt Lake, who was to have spoken, was detained at home by illness.

The committee on arrangements in charge of last night's banquet consisted of the following, three members coming from each of the three local lodges: S. M. Randolph, chairman, James Collins, secretary, N. W. Bondacker, Charles Fisher, J. W. Young, Joseph Sands, A. F. Sanders, J. W. Payne and H. E. Herman. Judge Barnes left this morning, for Ogden, whence he will travel through the west and northwest visiting Pythian lodges.

A CORRECTION.

We, members of the Teachers Correlation Association, called on Supt. D. H. Christensen Monday to confer with him, regarding an article in the "News" entitled "Woman Book Agent Victimizing Mothers." We were under the impression that Mr. Christensen was condemning our work.

Mr. Christensen stated that he had not examined the New Practical Reference Library and had no intention whatever of condemning it. He also stated that the method of presenting that work to the parents as explained to him Monday, was not fraudulent or misleading.

In defense of our own integrity and reputation for honest dealings, we feel compelled to say that we carried with us a written recommendation from Mr. G. W. Mumford of Murray, for the Hills Practical Reference Work, which has since been added to and changed in name to the New Practical Reference Library. Mr. Mumford was selected to represent the principals because of the unstinted praise bestowed upon him by his patrons and because, he, as one of the oldest educators of the state, is so widely known in this city.

The county superintendent also gave a written recommendation and so far as our knowledge goes, has the work in his own home at the present time. No other recommendations were asked for though many of the principals of the schools have looked the work over.

At any rate it would be presumption on the part of any educator to condemn indiscriminately a work whose contributors are such men as Nathan C. Shaeffer who is the president of the National Educational Association and David E. Barnard who is working under the government as director of education in the Philippine Islands. Another contributor, Mr. Frank B. Cooper, who is so well known here as Salt Lake's former superintendent, has also acquired a national reputation among educators. In fact all the contributors, it will be seen, are of like repute from all parts of the United States.

However, we had confidence enough in the people of Salt Lake, to take it for granted that each and every parent had good sense enough and could trust his or her own judgment sufficiently to appreciate what is set before them and thoroughly explained, without having the opinion of others thrust in their faces. We trust this confidence has not been misplaced.

DEATH OF MRS. FARNSWORTH.

Estimable Woman Passes Away at Age of 67.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Duzette Farnsworth, mother of Cashier Louis H. Farnsworth of Walker Bros. bank, died yesterday afternoon, at the residence of her son, 1150 east First South street, aged 67, from a complication of troubles. She leaves three children, Mrs. Frank C. Wire of this city, Cashier Farnsworth, and Deputy County Clerk W. H. Farnsworth. The funeral will be held from Mr. L. H. Farnsworth's residence, at 2 p. m., tomorrow, with interment at Mt. Olivet. The deceased was a native of Illinois, removing to Utah with her parents, a few years later. She married M. F. Farnsworth who died three years ago. Mrs. Farnsworth went to California 11 years ago, to care for an invalid daughter, Miss Zetta Farnsworth, returning to Salt Lake City, at the death of the latter, a year ago.

WIFE DESERTED HIM.

But Ralph Siddoway Forgave Her—Married in Salt Lake.

Deserted by his wife, after seven years of married life, Ralph Siddoway has given the recent spouse and her new lover his blessing, told them to be happy, and promised her that if ever she is mistreated, he will come to her aid and kill the man who won her affection from him. Siddoway is formerly from Salt Lake where he met and wooed the wife who has just left him. He went from Salt Lake to St. Louis to work for John C. Higdon, president of the Success Automobile Co., and a relative. His wife disappeared several days ago, and he traced her to Kansas City, where he found her in a hotel with a young Englishman named Matthew Newman, a friend who Siddoway had introduced to his wife.

On returning to St. Louis he gave out the following interview on his encounter with the pair:

"I told him to keep her, but that if he ever mistreated her I would find and kill him."

"I told them I did not want the blood of either of them upon my head. When they went away they took all my savings. I have been making good money as an automobile machinist, and kept my money in a safe deposit, in which my wife kept her valuables. I met Newman in the hotel where we were living. He was not working and was in the hotel while I was at work. I never thought he and my wife were more than ordinary friends. We were all members of a coterie at the hotel who played cards together."

"When she did not return Monday I went to our room and found she had taken her small belongings in a suit case. Through a letter which a friend showed me, I learned she had gone to Kansas City."

FOUND THEM TOGETHER.

"I got to Kansas City Tuesday morning and went at once to the hotel where Newman was in the office and shook hands with me so cordially I felt ashamed for suspecting him. I resolved I had been mistaken, and he accompanied me to the station. But I got to thinking the matter over again and returned to the hotel. I asked the clerk for my wife. He told me Mrs. Siddoway was not there, but that Mrs. Newman was. I went up to the room and knocked. There was no response. I climbed up and looked through the transom. There they were together."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.
